"We want to make sure everyone in the family feels comfortable coming to camp," said Jenn Goethel, senior marketing manager at REV Group. "We know moms make any experience feel like home, so this is an opportunity to try to provide some of the comforts of home while out and about. One of our core values at REV Group is to take care of the whole family, and creating a space for mothers who need to beat the heat or take care of their children is a great demonstration of that."
